

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The subject invention relates to a method of identifying kinases as targets which may be utilized in the development of therapies for metabolic disorders.

5 Additionally, the present invention relates to a method of screening potential therapeutic agents for the ability to prevent IRS-1 degradation and enhance insulin signaling.